

Essentials of Entrepreneurship

CHANGING THE WORLD, ONE IDEA AT A TIME

SECOND EDITION

Robert A. Baron

Regents Professor, Spears Professor of Entrepreneurship, Holder Family Chair in Entrepreneurship, School of Entrepreneurship, Spears School of Business, Oklahoma State University, USA

Keith M. Hmieleski

Robert and Edith Schumacher Faculty Fellow and Professor of Entrepreneurship, Academic Director, Neeley Entrepreneurship Center, Neeley School of Business, Texas Christian University, USA

Edward Elgar
PUBLISHING

Cheltenham, UK • Northampton, MA, USA

Full contents

About the authors	xi
Preface	xiii
Acknowledgements	xvii

PART I FOUNDATIONS OF ENTREPRENEURSHIP

1 Entrepreneurship: Changing the world, one idea at a time	3
Entrepreneurship: Why it usually, but not always , means starting a new business	5
What do entrepreneurs seek? Wealth? Fame? Doing social good?
Answer: All of the above	13
Is entrepreneurship always beneficial?	17
Conditions that encourage or discourage entrepreneurship: How they vary by country	19
Acquiring the knowledge we seek: Why the insights of entrepreneurs—even highly successful ones—are often not enough	21
A roadmap of this book: Its special features	24
2 Cognitive foundations of entrepreneurship	28
Human cognition: Its basic nature—and important limitations	32
Creativity: Where entrepreneurship begins	39
Design thinking: Drawing on the past to create the future	48
Creativity and innovation: From ideas to reality	50
Entrepreneurial cognition: Inside the mind of the entrepreneur	52
3 Opportunities: Their nature, discovery, and creation	61
Opportunities: What they are, and where they come from	64
Opportunities: Discovered, created, or both?	64
Opportunity recognition: Why are some people better at it than others?	67
A personal characteristic related to opportunity recognition: The nature and impact of alertness	68
Cognitive foundations of opportunity recognition: Pattern recognition, structural alignment, and regulatory focus theory	71
How entrepreneurs can become skilled at recognizing opportunities	81

PART II GATHERING ESSENTIAL RESOURCES

4 Feasibility analysis—look before you leap: What entrepreneurs need to know before they begin	91
Is the opportunity worth pursuing? Basic dimensions of feasibility analysis	93
Is a feasibility analysis always necessary—or useful?	99
Industry analysis: Some industries are more favorable for new ventures than others—and how entrepreneurs deal with this problem	101
How entrepreneurs can minimize these problems	105
Other essential information: Being familiar with key government policies and regulations	109
5 Transforming ideas into reality: Careful planning ... and improvising	117
Business plans: Formal guides to creating value	121
What makes a business plan persuasive?	126
Improvisation: Its basic nature and relationship to firm performance	135
6 Assembling key resources I: Obtaining, managing, and using financial assets	147
Financial resources: Where to find them—and how to obtain them	149
Venture capitalists: How do they really decide which ventures to support?	159
Estimating financial needs: How much will it cost to get started, and how will these funds be used?	162
Why obtaining financial resources is often difficult: Overcoming investors' caution	168
7 Assembling key resources II: Building a strong founding team, developing social networks, and obtaining expert advice	178
Building a strong founding team—and beyond: Developing the new venture's human capital	179
Beyond the founding team: Attracting outstanding employees	184
Developing high-quality social networks: Why who you know often matters as much as—or even more than—what you know	185
8 Entrepreneurs: Their central role ... and what they need to succeed	198
Entrepreneurs are the heart of entrepreneurship but they are definitely not the entire story	201

Are entrepreneurs different from other people—and if so, why?	202
Skills that contribute to entrepreneurs' success—and may be essential for it	205
Social skills: Getting along with others to acquire social capital	210
Personality: The role of personal traits	214
The “Big Five” dimensions	216
Emotion and passion: The “feeling” side of entrepreneurship	220

PART III MANAGING, BUILDING, AND LEAVING THE NEW VENTURE

9 Legal aspects of entrepreneurship: Protecting your ideas	233
Can you legally start a new venture? Not if you have signed agreements that limit your right to do so	236
Legal protections for what you have created: Copyrights, trademarks, and patents	238
Other means of protecting the products of your creativity: Trade secrets and complementary assets	251
Franchising: A new venture “in a box”?	254
10 Strategies for attaining growth and ensuring long-term success	263
Why entrepreneurs seek to grow their businesses	263
Preparing for growth	265
Strategies for achieving growth	273
Building for the future: Professionalizing the business	282
11 Endings ... happy or sad: When and how entrepreneurs leave their companies	292
Different ways of saying “farewell”	294
Is taking their company public always the “golden ring” for entrepreneurs?	301
Exit by necessity rather than choice: The effects of business failure	308

PART IV WHAT COMES NEXT? EMERGING TRENDS IN ENTREPRENEURSHIP

12 Emerging trends in entrepreneurship	325
Why it is important for prospective entrepreneurs to keep up with trends	325
Wanting more than income from a career: Entrepreneurship as a calling	326
The rise of women's entrepreneurship	330

Shared workspaces	333
The evolution of entrepreneurial ecosystems	335
The untethering of technology	337
Open innovation	340
The gig economy	342
Author index	347
Subject index	350