

Israel's Path to Europe

The Negotiations for a Preferential
Agreement, 1957–1970

Gadi Heimann and Lior Herman

Contents

|  |        |
|--|--------|
| Acknowledgments   | vii    |
| List of illustrations   | viii   |
| Introduction  | 1  |
| 1 The path to economic integration  | 11 |
| Historical background: the establishment of the European Economic Community                         | 11     |
| The European Community institutions   | 16     |
| The economies of The Six: the effects of establishing the EEC                                       | 23     |
| 2 The Israeli economy confronts the Common Market challenge                                     | 34 |
| A blooming economy  | 34     |
| Agriculture—Israel's most important export sector   | 35     |
| The future of Israel's economy lies in industry!  | 38     |
| The Common Market challenge to Israeli exports  | 42     |
| 3 Pursuing a range of options   | 53 |
| Establishment of the Inter-Ministerial Committee  | 53     |
| Israel's attempt to penetrate the Council of Europe and the initiative for a multilateral agreement | 57     |
| The Israeli campaign for multilateral negotiations with OEEC countries                              | 59     |
| Initial contacts with the EEC   | 63     |
| 4 A covert understanding between the Commission and Israel                                      | 75 |
| The Commission pushes Israel towards the solution of association                                    | 75     |
| The Israelis decide in favor of association   | 81     |

vi Contents

|   |         |
|---|---------|
| Lobbying in the capitals of The Six  | 87      |
| The failure of Israel's first attempt to achieve association                   | 98      |
| 5 The end of the dream of association  | 107     |
| A limited trade agreement?   | 107     |
| Israel insists on association  | 110     |
| At a crossroads  | 113     |
| 6 The decision to begin negotiations on a trade agreement                      | 125     |
| The bureaucrats in Brussels stand firm   | 125     |
| Lobbying for negotiations  | 129     |
| The adaptation of the "tactical approach"                                      | 137     |
| The decision to open negotiations  | 145     |
| 7 The low ebb of Israel-EEC negotiations                                       | 157     |
| Stalemate in the first round of negotiations                                   | 157     |
| The Dutch initiative   | 166     |
| The negotiations hit rock bottom   | 171     |
| 8 A non-preferential agreement   | 184     |
| New proposals in Rome and Bonn   | 185     |
| Rey assumes the reins  | 191     |
| The Israeli dilemma  | 200     |
| 9 Israel's return to association   | 212     |
| Orange exports and the "European product"                                      | 212     |
| The meeting of the follow-up committee: Israel abandons the pragmatic approach | 216     |
| Israel returns to the association solution                                     | 220     |
| The Commission decides in favor of a preferential agreement                    | 225     |
| 10 A preferential agreement  | 241     |
| The Six Day War and France's uncooperative stance                              | 241     |
| The change in the German position and the French capitulation                  | 246     |
| Conclusions  | 255     |
| Appendix 1 List of archives and abbreviations                              | 276 |
| Appendix 2 Illustrations   | 278     |
| Index  | 281     |