

Table of Contents

Part I: The Problem of Class in Icelandic Historical Consideration and Empirical Procedure	1
1. Introduction	1
1.1 An Outline of Problems	3
1.2 The Variables	7
1.3 Theoretical Considerations	10
1.4 Preliminary Remarks on Procedure	12
1.5 Outline of the Report	13
2. Contradictions of the Equalitarian Stance	15
2.1 Common Sense Knowledge of Icelandic Society	17
2.2 Some Characteristics of the Social System that Explain Equality Attributions	18
2.3 Structural and Historical Reasons for Equality	19
2.4 Kinship Relations	21
2.5 Socialization Patterns	22
2.6 Ideological Corroboration of Equality	25
2.7 Literacy	26
2.8 Contradictions Summarized	27
3. The Scaling of Class	29
3.1 Introductory Note	31
3.2 The Construction of a Scale of Occupational Class	32
Part II: Empirical Explorations of Class	39
4. Structure and Content of the Class System	39
4.1 A Note on the Representativeness of the Sample	42
4.2 Occupational Structure and Occupational Mobility	43
4.3 Differential Mobility	53
4.4 Digression on Mobility and Socialization	55
4.5 Education	58
4.6 Income	69
4.7 Some Remarks on Inter-marriage Patterns	73
4.8 Family Size	75
4.9 Family Size and Education	82
Part III: Validations of Class	85
5. Social Inequality and Socialization Research: Some Introductory Remarks	85
6. Class and Intelligence	89
6.1 An Outline of the Analysis of Children's Intelligence	91
6.2 Structure and Use of the WISC in the Present Study	93
6.3 Occupational Class and IQ	94

6.4	Sex Differences in IQ	99
6.5	Differences in Verbal and Performance IQ	101
6.6	Education of Parents and IQ of Children	106
6.7	Discussion and Summary	107
7.	Class and School Achievement	109
7.1	An Outline of the Problem	111
7.2	Some Characteristics of the School System and the Data	112
7.3	GPA at Graduation from Lower and Upper Elementary School	113
7.4	The Contribution of Class to Grades	116
7.5	Sex Effects	118
7.6	Stratification and School Achievement: Some Further Evidence	122
7.7	Grades and IQ	124
8.	Class and Patterns of Child Rearing	129
9.	Class and Mental Health	139
10.	Summary and Conclusions	147
11.	Appendix	155
12.	References	161
	A. General	163
	B. Icelandic	172