

Contents

Acknowledgments	xi
Introduction	3
CHAPTER ONE
True and False Hope	11
What May I Hope?	11
The Socratic Ideal	12
Internal and External Goods	14
The Goods of Good Lives	16
Some Misunderstandings	19
The Essential Conditions of Life	21
False Hope and the Vulnerability of Good Lives	27
CHAPTER TWO
The Tragic View of Life	31
The Moral Importance of Tragedy	31
Tragic Situations	34
Tragic Situations and the Essential Conditions of Life	37
One Response to Tragic Situations	39
The Tension Tragedy Reveals	43
CHAPTER THREE
Evil, Desert, and Character-Morality	45
The Wide and Narrow Senses of "Evil"	45
The Primary and Derivative Senses of "Evil"	47
The Moral Relevance of Evil	49
Simple Evil and Character-Morality	50
Character-Morality and Desert	55
The Minimum Content of Character-Morality	64
CHAPTER FOUR
Unchosen Evil	66
Tragic Situations and Unchosen Evil	66
The Nature of Choice	67
Insufficiency	71
Expediency	75
Malevolence	79
Unchosen Evil and the Lack of Control	83

CHAPTER FIVE

Morality beyond Choice 84

The Moral Reaction to Unchosen Evil 84*The Soft Reaction* 85*The First Assumption of Choice-Morality: Ought Implies Can* 89*Choice-Morality versus Character-Morality* 93*The Principle Demoted* 99*The Growing Content of Character-Morality* 103

CHAPTER SIX

Human Worth and Moral Merit 106

Choice and Human Worth 106*The Second Assumption of Choice-Morality: Moral Egalitarianism* 108*Selves and Their Qualities* 110*The Ground of Desert* 115*The Potentialities of Human Nature* 117*Moral Inequality* 121

CHAPTER SEVEN

Good and Evil in Human Nature 124

Evil as Corruption 124*The Third Assumption of Choice-Morality: The Basic Goodness of Human Nature* 128*Evil and Choice* 131*The Failure of Kant's Argument* 136*The Rejection of Choice-Morality and the Soft Reaction* 140*The Mixed View of Human Nature* 142

CHAPTER EIGHT

Character-Morality: Taking Stock 146

Character-Morality and the Essential Conditions of Life 146*The Ideal of Character-Morality* 149*Nine Theses of Character-Morality* 154*Two Aspects of Character-Morality* 157*The State of the Argument* 161

CHAPTER NINE

The Institutional Dimension of Character-Morality 163

What Kind of Institution Should Character-Morality Be? 163*The Knowledge of Prohibitions* 166*The Justification of Deep Prohibitions* 172*The Motivation to Conform to Deep Prohibitions* 179

CHAPTER TEN

The Personal Dimension of Character-Morality: The Possibility of Control	182
Understanding and Hope	182
Pragmatism	190
Irony	192
Romanticism	196
From Understanding toward Control	200

CHAPTER ELEVEN

The Personal Dimension of Character-Morality: The Reflective Temper	202
The Reflective Temper and the Flawed Responses	202
Reflection and Increased Control	205
The Motivation to Increase Control	213
Increased Control and Emotional Reactions	216
The Reflective Temper: An Overview	221

CHAPTER TWELVE

Character-Morality and Our Sensibility	223
Character-Morality as a Response to the Secular Problem of Evil	223
Character-Morality and Changes in Our Sensibility	226
Rights and Moral Merit	228
Psychologizing and Facing Evil	230
Relativism and the Objectivity of Evil	233
The True Center of Character-Morality	236

Works Cited	239
--------------------	-----

Index	247
--------------	-----