

Contents

Acknowledgements

Ingo Plag and Klaus P. Schneider

Who is Rüdiger Zimmermann and why do we love him? An integrative approach

1

Historical Linguistics

Dieter Stein (Düsseldorf)

Turning the clock back in English morphosyntax: they never come back (quite the same), do they?

17

Günter Rohdenburg (Paderborn)

The complexity principle as a factor determining grammatical variation and change in English

25

Wolfgang Ullrich Wurzel (Berlin)

Pfade durch das Lexikon: Für Rüdiger Zimmermann zum Sechzigsten

45

Jürgen Handke (Marburg)

Linguistic education using the new technologies: the case of historical linguistics

66

Second Language Acquisition

Larry Selinker and Carol Kinahan (London)

Online interlanguage analysis: pilgrimage from Santiago

83

Manfred Pienemann (Paderborn)

Psycholinguistic mechanisms in the development of English as a second language

99

Ruth Albert (Marburg)

Interferenzerscheinungen bei morphologisch komplexen Wörtern aus verwandten Sprachen

119

| | |
|---|-----|
| Ingo Plag (Siegen) | |
| Irregular past tense formation in English interlanguage | 134 |
| Birgit Henriksen and Kirsten Haastrup (Copenhagen) | |
| Describing foreign language learners' productive vocabulary use and development | 150 |
| Janusz Arabski (Katowice) | |
| Gender differences in foreign language pronunciation skills | 173 |
| Claus Gnutzmann (Braunschweig) | |
| Teaching grammar: sense and sensibility | 185 |
| Lienhard Legenhausen (Münster) | |
| Principles of authenticity and the autonomous classroom | 200 |
| Dieter Wolff (Wuppertal) | |
| Some reflections on the importance of writing in foreign language learning | 213 |
| Una Dirks (Hildesheim) | |
| Soziobiographische Dimensionen des Fremdsprachenlehrens auf der Basis narrativer Interviews mit EnglischlehrerInnen | 227 |

Political Discourse

| | |
|---|-----|
| Paul A. Chilton (Birmingham) | |
| Participant roles and the analysis of leadership discourse: British and American leaders explain the Kosovo crisis | 249 |
| Klaus P. Schneider (Bonn) | |
| Talking about peace for Northern Ireland: a contrastive rhetorical analysis of the Nobel Prize acceptance speeches by John Hume and David Trimble | 268 |