

CONTENTS

Preface	ix
Acknowledgments	xiii
Chapter 1. Conceptualizing the AIDS Movie and Its Study	1
AIDS, Social Construction, and Media Representation	4
Defining and Analyzing the AIDS Movie	8
Significance of the Study	12
Chapter 2. The Cinematic Tradition of Otherness Meets AIDS	15
Otherness, Science Fiction, and AIDS	17
Otherness, Melodrama, and AIDS	23
Other Forms of Otherness and AIDS	32
Chapter 3. "Us" versus "Them": "Innocent Victims" and the Politics of Victim Blaming	33
"Villains" and "Innocent Victims"	34
The Process of Victim Blaming in AIDS Movies	39
Chapter 4. Gay Men As "The (Primary) Other" in the AIDS Movie	45
The Persistent Representational Link Between Gay Men and AIDS: Opportunities, Shortcomings, and Consequences for Gay Males	48
Consequences of the Persistent Representational Link Between Gay Men and AIDS for Members of Other Social Groups	58
Chapter 5. AIDS and the City (versus the Country)	67
The City As Gay Utopia and AIDS Dystopia	68
The Country As Balm to City-Dwelling "Deviants"	76

Chapter 6. Other Ways of Representing AIDS	81
The Form and Function of AIDS Characters in Non-AIDS Movies	81
AIDS Metaphor Movies	87
Self-Representation in AIDS Documentaries	91
The (Near) Future of Representing AIDS	97
Appendix A: Complete List of AIDS Movies Compiled	99
Appendix B: List of AIDS Movies Analyzed in This Study	101
References	103
Index	109