

CONTENTS

Series Editors' Introduction	v
Introduction	vii
1. What Is Exploration?	1
Defining Exploration	2
The Process of Exploration	5
Exploration and Confirmation	9
Concatenation	12
Conclusions	17
2. Exploring	17
Setting the Agenda	18
Induction, Deduction, and Exploration	24
Qualitative and Quantitative	28
Conclusions	30
3. Exploration Illustrated	30
Middle-Class Marijuana Users and Lifestyle	31
Women and the Development of Occupational Aspirations	33
Becoming a Mother: Experiencing the Postpartum Phenomenon	35
Health Care Coordination: The Consumer's View	36
Prison Inmates in Wildlife Rehabilitation	38
Conclusiveness and Generalizability	40

4. Writing up Exploratory Research	41
The Literature Review	42
Supremacy of Generalizations	43
Quoting Respondents	44
On the Nature of Generalizations	46
Validity and Reliability	47
Conclusions	50
5. The Explorer	50
What Is an Explorer?	51
Lifestyle	52
Motivation and Career	55
Conclusions	58
6. Exploration: Its Future in the Social Sciences	58
Exploration in the Information Age	59
References	62
About the Author	67