

Contents

List of illustrations	xi
Notes on contributors	xii
✕ The global and the national of the Chinese media: discourses, market, technology, and ideology	1
CHIN-CHUAN LEE
2 “Enter the World”: neo-liberal globalization, the dream for a strong nation, and Chinese press discourses on the WTO	32
YUEZHI ZHAO
3 Capturing the flame: aspirations and representations of Beijing’s 2008 Olympics	57
JUDY POLUMBAUM
4 Established pluralism: U.S. elite media discourse on China policy	76
CHIN-CHUAN LEE
5 Chinese media and youth: attitudes toward nationalism and internationalism	97
STANLEY ROSEN
6 Political drama and news narratives: presidential summits on Chinese and U.S. national television	119
TSAN-KUO CHANG

X Globalization and the Chinese media: technologies, content, commerce and the prospects for the public sphere	139
BARRETT L. MCCORMICK AND QING LIU
8 Administrative boundaries and media marketization: a comparative analysis of the newspaper, TV and Internet markets in China	159
JOSEPH MAN CHAN
9 West Lake wired: shaping Hangzhou's information age	177
KATHLEEN HARTFORD
10 How do the Chinese media reduce organizational incongruence? Bureaucratic capitalism in the name of Communism	196
ZHOU HE
11 Localizing professionalism: discursive practices in China's media reforms	215
ZHONGDANG PAN AND YE LU
12 The future of Chinese cinema: some lessons from Hong Kong and Taiwan	237
MICHAEL CURTIN
13 Marketing popular culture in China: Andy Lau as a pan-Chinese icon	257
ANTHONY FUNG
Index	270

Tables

1.1	Media conglomeration in China	11
1.2	Impact of the WTO on foreign investment in China's media and telecommunications industries	13
1.3	Intellectual discourses about China's accession to the WTO	20
2.1	Distribution of WTO-related stories in selected newspapers	34
2.2	News sources for three selected papers	41
4.1	Ideological packages of the New York Times editorials and columns (1990–2000)	83
6.1	Presidential summits and news narratives on ABC and CCTV	133
8.1	Administrative boundaries and marketization in the newspaper, television and Internet markets	171
9.1	Just how wired? (1999)	183
11.1	Key components of four distinguishable journalistic discourses	219
11.2	Chinese terms related to “professionalism”	226
12.1	Taipei market share (by percentage)	245
12.2	Taipei ticket purchases (in millions)	245