

Contents

Contributors	ix
Acknowledgments	xi

Introduction: rethinking Third Cinema	1
ANTHONY R. GUNERATNE

PART I
Third Cinema theory and beyond	29
1 Beyond Third Cinema: the aesthetics of hybridity	31
ROBERT STAM

PART II
Challenging Third World legacies: issues of gender, culture, and representation	49
2 Post-Third-Worldist culture: gender, nation, and the cinema	51
ELLA SHOHAT
3 The erotics of history: gender and transgression in the new Asian cinemas	79
SUMITA S. CHAKRAVARTY

PART III
Alternative cinemas in the age of globalization	101
4 Authorship, globalization, and the new identity of Latin American cinema: from the Mexican “ranchera” to Argentinian “exile”	103
MARVIN D’LUGO
5 Video booms and the manifestations of “first” cinema in anglophone Africa	126
N. FRANK UKADIKE
 PART IV
The relocation of culture: social specificity and the “Third” question	145
 6 What’s “oppositional” in Indonesian cinema?	147
KRISHNA SEN
7 The seductions of homecoming: place, authenticity, and Chen Kaige’s Temptress Moon	166
REY CHOW
 PART V
Receiving/retrieving Third (World) Cinema: alternative approaches to spectator studies and critical history	181
 8 Theorizing “Third World” film spectatorship: the case of Iran and Iranian cinema	183
HAMID NAFICY
9 Rethinking Indian popular cinema: towards newer frames of understanding	202
WIMAL DISSANAYAKE
 Index	226