

Contents

Preface	xiv
Eyetracking, Not All Usability	xv
Supplementary Reports	xvi
What This Book Doesn't Cover	xvii
1 Eyetracking and the Eye	3
How Modern Eyetracking Works	4
Foveal Vision vs. Peripheral Vision	6
Fixations and Saccades	6
Why Do Users Not See Something?	7
The Mind-Eye Hypothesis	9
Are Looks Good or Bad?	10
Visualizing Eyetracking Results	10
Viewing the Heat Maps and Gaze Plots in This Book	11
Tasks Determine Looks	13
Other Uses of Eyetracking	17
Eyetrackers as Input Devices	18
2 Our Eyetracking Research	21
Data Collected	22
Study Participants	23
Qualitative and Quantitative Sessions	24
Test Sessions	25
Session Logistics	26
Web Sites and Test Tasks	26
Measures	30
Why Many Eyetracking Studies Are Bogus	35
Representative Users	35
Realistic Task Performance	36
Wide Variety of the Web Sites and Tasks	38
Weigh the Evidence	38
Cost of Eyetracking Research	40
Overall Study Costs	41
Recruiting Costs	41
Lost Eyetracking and Recorded Data Costs	42
Eyetracking-Related Costs	43
Equipment	43

3	Page Layout	47
	How Do People Look at a Page?	50
	Users Looking for News	50
	Users Looking to Buy	53
	Users Buying a Specific Item	58
	Users Doing a Very Specific Task	61
	Web Design Standards That Users Look For	64
	Organization of Pages	66
	Light Pages Encourage Looking	66
	Content Placement and Visual Indicators	70
	Use Priority Spots	72
	Allocate Screen Real Estate Wisely	98
	The Most Important Elements Should Stand Out	103
	The Price of Miscues	105
	Using Eyetracking to Improve Page Layout	108
4	Navigation	113
	Menus and Information Architecture	114
	Global Navigation	114
	Consistent, Persistent, and Simple Navigation	116
	Subpar Subnavigation	118
	Vanishing Navigation	121
	How Information Architecture Can Alienate Users	131
	Branding and Marketing in Menus Confuses People	135
	Utility Navigation	140
	Navigational Elements	142
	Links and Headings	142
	Buttons	145
	Breadcrumbs	156
	Search Front-End	156
5	Fundamental Web Design Elements	159
	On the Homepage	160
	Login	162
	Privacy Policy	163
	Contact	163
	Language Selectors	164
	Logos and Tag Lines	164
	Shopping Carts	165
	When to Feature Exposed Shopping Carts	172

Forms, Fields, and Applications	176
Grouping Sections and Placing Field Labels	176
Don't Break Up Phone Number Fields	188
Short Forms Make for Easy Scanning	189
Avoid Prompt Text in Fields (At Least for Now)	191
Guidelines for Reducing Fixations in Forms	192
6 Images	195
What Does and Doesn't Draw
Attention to an Image	196
Images as Obstacles	197
Omit Filler Images	203
Attributes That Draw Attention	204
Contrast, Quality, and Detail	204
Motivation and Expectations Can Help Even
Bad Images Get Looks	206
Originality	213
Relationship to Content	218
Magnetic Elements	226
Informational Images	270
Images That Resemble Advertisements	283
Cartoons and Illustrations	285
Images in E-commerce	289
Moving Images	302
7 Advertisements	325
It's a Jungle Out There	326
When People Look at Ads	327
Doing Tasks vs. Browsing	327
How Different Types of Ads Fare with Users	332
The Impact of Ad Placement	334
Ad Relativity and Competition in User Interfaces	335
Banner Blindness	339
Text (Sponsored Link) Ads	342
Why People Look at Sponsored Links on SERPs	342
Sponsored Links on Other Pages	343
Sponsored Links and Hot Potato Behavior	345
Do Graphics Belong in Web Advertising?	347
Internal Promotions:
Match the Site's Style	348
Assess Your Promotion for Lookability	354

External Ads: What Works	356
Large, Readable Graphical Text Alone or Separate from Images	356
Magnetic or Thrilling Graphical Properties	359
Animated Ads	364
8 User Viewing Behaviors on the Web	373
Exhaustive Review vs. Necessary or Desired Review	374
Exhaustive Review Can Be Downright Exhausting	380
Bad Record for Some Baseball Sites	383
What Happens When Information Is Too Complicated	392
Momentum Behavior	396
Logging	402
Selective Disregard	402
Post-click Behavior	405
Post-click Verification	405
Post-click Looks	409
Perpetual Viewing	412
Impatient Looking	412
Residual Looks	415
Eyetracking Reveals Another Level of User Behaviors	416
Appendix	420
How Much People Look at Basic Web Interface Elements	420
Glossary	422
Index	424