

Contents

List of Figures	vii
Preface	ix
Acknowledgments	xi
Introduction: Encounter, Invention, Narration	1
1     Narrating Encounter: The Book of John Mandeville	21
2     Translation, Compilation, and Triangulation: Richard Eden's Invention of English Discovery	49
3     Evolutions of Racial Discourse: George Best and the Narration of English-Inuit Encounters, 1576–1578	79
4     Bruites and Conspiracies: Ralph Lane's Narration of Native Counter-Intelligence	105
5     “[Y]et hee so demeaned himselfe”: John Smith's Confidence Games	143
6     Terror and Tears in New England: Gender, Violence, Victimhood, and American Identity	177
Conclusion: The Significance of Encounter from an Early Americanist Perspective	199
Works Cited	209
Index	223