

UNIVERSITEIT ANTWERPEN
*Faculteit Medische en
Farmaceutische Wetenschappen*

Nosocomial infections at a Neonatal Intensive Care Unit:
searching priorities for prevention and research

Nosocomiale infecties in een Neonatale Intensieve Zorgen Afdeling:
zoeken naar prioriteiten voor preventie en onderzoek

Proefschrift voorgelegd tot het behalen van de graad van doctor in de Medische Wetenschappen
aan de Universitaire Instelling Antwerpen te verdedigen door

Ludo M. A. Mahieu

Promotor: Prof. Dr. P. Van Reempts
Copromotoren: Prof. Dr. A. De Muynck
Prof. Dr. M. Ieven

Antwerpen, 2001

Med WS 420-7

~~UKBB - Bibliothek
Stanzhorn~~

Contents

Outline of the thesis	9
Chapter 1	Epidemiology of nosocomial infections in neonatal intensive care unit patients: a review. 13
Chapter 2	Risk factors for central vascular catheter associated bloodstream infections 49 In press J Hosp Infect 2001
Chapter 3	Microbiology and risk factors for catheter exit-site and -hub colonization 69 In press Infect Control Hosp Epidemiol 2001
Chapter 4	Catheter manipulations and the risk of catheter associated bloodstream infection 87 In press J Hosp Infect 2001
Chapter 5	Prediction of nosocomial sepsis by means of a bedside scoring system (NOSEP-score). 109 Crit Care Med 2000;28:2026-2033
Chapter 6	Validation of diagnostic criteria (NOSEP-score) for prediction of nosocomial sepsis in neonates. 135 Submitted Crit Care Med 2001
Chapter 7	Additional hospital stay and charges due to nosocomial infections 163 J Hosp Infect 2001; 47:223-229
Chapter 8	Aspergillus air contamination during renovation works in a neonatal intensive care unit. 183 J Hosp Infect 2000; 45: 191-197.
Chapter 9	General discussion 201
Conclusion	215
Dankwoord	217
Curriculum vitae and list of publications	221