

Contents

Introduction	1
1. The gospel according to Dr Strangelove	5
2. Can science live with its past?	22
3. Styles of living scientifically: a tale of three nations	48
4. We are all scientists now: the rise of Protscience	61
5. The scientific ethic and the spirit of literalism	72
6. What has atheism – old or new – ever done for science?	86
7. Science as an instrument of divine justice	113
8. Scientific progress as secular providence	122
9. Science poised between changing the future and undoing the past	134
10. Further reading	147
Index	167