

Contents

Contributors	xiii
Acknowledgments	xv
Preface: Interpreting performances and cultures	xvii
A first mapping: About this book	xvii
A second mapping: Cultural performances, theatre, and drama	xviii
A third mapping: About history, historiography, and historical methods	xxiii
The historian's sources	xxv
A fourth mapping: Periodization through modes of human communication	xxviii
Case studies and interpretive approaches: The historian at work	xxx
A note on diacritics, spellings, and names	xxxi

PART I Performance and theatre in oral and written cultures before 1600	1
Edited by PHILLIP B. ZARRILLI
Introduction	3
The evolution of human language and consciousness	4
Human language, writing and society	9
Performance, communication, and remembrance	16
1 Oral, ritual, and shamanic performance	18
Primary orality	19

CONTENTS

Oral performance	20
Oral texts and their transmission under the written sign:
Vedic chanting in India	23
Ritual specialists: Accessing sacred power	26
Late Neolithic ritual landscapes and pilgrimage in England	27
Early Celtic oral and ritual festival performance	28
Interpreting and understanding ritual	32
Ritual, ceremony, and collective social life	35
The healing powers of ritual/shamanic specialists	39
Summary	41
Case studies
Yoruba ritual as “play,” and “contingency” in the ritual process	42
Interpretive approach Theories of play and improvisation	44
Korean shamanism and the power of speech	47
Interpretive approach Speech act theory	50
2 Religious and civic festivals: Early drama and theatre in context	53
Commemorative ritual “drama” in Abydos, Egypt	54
Dialogic drama in the city-state of Athens	59
Mesoamerican performance	66
Texts in other traditions	71
Medieval Christian liturgy and drama	72
Islamic commemorative mourning “dramas”: The Ta’zieh of Iran	79
Summary discussion	83
Case studies
Classical Greek theatre: Looking at Oedipus	85
Interpretive approach Cognitive studies	90
Christians and Moors: Medieval performance in Spain and the New World	93
Interpretive approach Cultural hierarchy	95
3 Imperial theatre: Pleasure, power, and aesthetics	99
Drama, theatre, and performance in the Roman Republic and Empire	100
Indian literary and commemorative drama and theatre	106
Early Chinese and Japanese drama, theatre, and performance	112
Summary discussion	117

Case studies
Plautus's plays: What's so funny?	120
Interpretive approach, Part I Henri Bergson's theory of laughter	122
Interpretive approach, Part II Bergson's theory in historical perspective	125
Kutiyattam Sanskrit theatre of India: Rasa-bhāva aesthetic theory and the question of taste	126
Interpretive approach Reception theory	129
The Silent Bell: The Japanese noh play, Dôjôji	136
Interpretive approach Feminist and gender theory, modified for medieval Japan	137
 PART II Theatre and print cultures, 1500–1900	 149
Edited by BRUCE MCCONACHIE
 Introduction: China and Western Europe	 151
The rise of European professional theatres	153
Commedia dell'arte	155
Institutionalizing drama in Europe	157
Golden Age theatre in Spain, 1590–1680	159
Neoclassicism and print in Europe	162
Le Cid and French absolutism	164
Scenic perspectivism in print and on stage	166
Acting and print in Europe after 1700	172
European dramatists claim authority	174
Theatre, print, and the public	177
 4 Theatre and the state, 1600–1900	 181
Theatre and the state in France, 1630–1675	182
From patronage to control in France, 1675–1789	183
Samurai warriors versus kabuki actors, 1600–1670	184
Regulating kabuki, 1670–1868	186
Theatre and the state in England, 1600–1660	188
Patents, censorship, and social order in England, 1660–1790	189
Theatre and the state in England and France, 1790–1900	191
 Case studies
Molière and carnival laughter	192
Interpretive approach Mikhail M. Bakhtin's concept of the carnivalesque	194

CONTENTS

	Kabuki and bunraku: Mimesis and the hybrid body	200
	Interpretive approach Mimesis, hybridity, and the body	201
	Shakespearean sexuality in Twelfth Night	208
	Interpretive approach Queer theory	209
5	Theatres for knowledge through feeling, 1700–1900	216
	Sentimental drama in England	217
	Sentiment on the continent	220
	Acting in the eighteenth century	221
	Feeling and knowledge in Kathakali dance-drama	223
	Changes and challenges in sentimentalism	224
	Melodrama and the French Revolution	226
	Melodramatic spectacle	227
	Melodrama gains spectators	227
	Case studies
	Theatre iconology and the actor as icon: David Garrick	230
	Interpretive approach Cultural studies and theatre iconology	232
	Kathakali dance-drama: Divine “play” and human suffering on stage	240
	Interpretive approach Ethnography and history	240
	Theatre and hegemony: Comparing popular melodramas	254
	Interpretive approach Cultural hegemony	258
6	Theatre, nation, and empire, 1750–1900	261
	Romanticism and the theatre	263
	Romanticism, history, and nationalism	264
	Nationalism and imperialism in theatre in the United States	268
	Nationalism and imperialism on the Russian stage	269
	Orientalism on the European stage	270
	Theatre riots	271
	Case study
	The Playboy riots: Nationalism in the Irish theatre	272
	Interpretive approach Cognitive linguistics	275
PART III	Theatre in modern media cultures, 1850–1970	279
	Edited by BRUCE MCCONACHIE
	Introduction: Historical changes after 1850	281
	Photography and audiophony in the theatre	282

	Spectacular bodies on the popular stage	284
	The rise of realism in the West	287
	Realist producer-directors	288
	The rise of realism in Japan	293
	Avante-garde theatres in the West	294
	The Great War as a turning point in world theatre	295
	Shakespeare and film in England	299
	Lyrical abstraction and the radio in France	301
	Psychological realism in the United States	303
	Theatre and politics	306
	The continuing power of print	301
7	Theatres of popular entertainment, 1850–1970	311
	Promoting popular entertainment	311
	Urban carnivals and optical delights	312
	Variety theatre	313
	English music hall	314
	Theatrical revues	315
	Popular melodrama and comedy	316
	Musical theatre	317
	Case studies
	“Blacking up” on the U.S. stage	319
	Interpretive approach Reification and utopia in popular culture	319
	British pantomime: How “bad” theatre remains popular	324
	Interpretive approach Phenomenology and history	328
8	Theatres of the avant-garde and their legacy, 1880–1970	331
	Naturalism on stage	332
	Symbolism and its influence	334
	Strindberg and the expressionists	335
	Retrospectivists and futurists	337
	Meyerhold and constructivism	338
	Dadaists and surrealists	339
	Institutionalizing the avant-garde	341
	The end of the avant-garde	343
	The avant-garde legacy in the United States	343
	The avant-garde legacy in France, 1945–1970	344
	Theatrical innovation in Latin America, 1930–1970	344
	Theatrical innovation in Eastern Europe, 1955–1970	345

CONTENTS

Theatrical innovation in South and Southeast Asia, 1950–1970	346
The avant-garde and political theatre	347
Case studies
Selves, roles, and actors: Actor training in the West	348
Interpretive approach Cognitive psychology	350
Discoursing on desire: Desire Under the Elms in the 1920s	355
Interpretive approach Discourse theory	357
Beckett's theatrical minimalism	362
Interpretive approach Performative writing	365
9 Theatres for reform and revolution, 1880–1970	370
Liberalism in the theatre, 1914–1930	371
Socialism in the theatre before 1914	372
Theatricalizing the Russian revolution	373
The influence of the revolution in the West	374
Theatres of anti-imperialism, 1900–1960	375
Postwar theatre in Japan and Germany	377
Theatre and the Cold War	379
1968 and its consequences	381
Case studies
Ibsen's A Doll House : If Nora were a material girl	382
Interpretive approach Cultural materialism	382
Social drama in Kerala, India: Staging the “revolution”	391
Interpretive approach Politics, ideology, history, and performance	391
Brecht directs Mother Courage	399
Interpretive approach Semiotics	400
PART IV Theatre and performance in the age of global communications, 1950–present	407
Edited by GARY JAY WILLIAMS
Introduction: Colonialism, globalization, media, and theatre	409
Media and theatre: All in the family	412
Globalization, media, theatre, and performance	415
The media: Power and resistance	416
Theatre, performance, resistance	418
Performance art	419
Theatre in postcolonial African nations	420

10 Rich and poor theatres of globalization	425
National theatres in the international marketplace	425
International festivals	427
Mega-musicals	429
Radical theatre in the West after 1968	430
Post-1968 radical theatre in developing nations	433
Theatres for development	435
Nuevo Teatro Popular	435
Community-based theatre since 1990	437
Case studies
The vortex of Times Square	439
Interpretive approach Vortices of behavior	440
Media and theatre: Niche marketing	446
11 Director, text, and performance in the postmodern world	450
Aristotle to postmodernism: Texts and contexts	450
Director and text in Antonin Artaud's "theatre of cruelty"	454
The holy actor as text in Jerzy Grotowski's "poor theatre"	456
Peter Brook's Shakespeare and contemporary authenticity	457
Terayama Shûji and the disquieting critique of theatrical convention	459
Suzuki Tadashi's contemporary Japanese Euripides	459
Other negotiations with the classics: Roger Planchon's Molière	461
The United States: The Performance Group, La Mama, and the Wooster Group	461
Theatre of images: Robert Wilson and others	464
Case studies
The crisis of representation and the authenticity of performance:
Antonin Artaud and Jacques Derrida	466
Interpretive approach Deconstruction	468
Global Shakespeare	471
Interpretive approach Postcolonial criticism	480
12: Interculturalism, hybridity, tourism: The performing world on new terms	485
Globalization and cross-cultural negotiations in theatre	485
Historical cross-cultural conversations	485
Intercultural theatre	486
Intracultural theatre	491

C O N T E N T S

Syncretism and hybridity	491
Tourism and performance	494
Case studies
Whose Mahabharata is it, anyway? The ethics and aesthetics of intercultural performance	497
Interpretive approach The historian between two views of intercultural performance	498
Imagining contemporary China: Gao Xingjian's Wild Man in post-Cultural Revolution China	505
Interpretive approach Theories of national identity	505
Backstage/frontstage: Ethnic tourist performances and identity in "America's Little Switzerland"	511
Interpretive approach Sociological theories of tourism and everyday performance	515
Index	520

Companion website at www.routledge.com/textbooks/9780415227285 for:
Discussion questions for all case studies
Conversations on teaching Theatre History
Theatre image bank
Additional bibliographies for chapters and case studies
Web links to sites useful to Theatre History teachers and students