Introduction: To Be (or Not to Be) the Poet: The Cultural Politics of Verse in Asian American Literature, 3

1. Toward a Prehistory of Asian American Verse: Pound, Cathay, and the Poetics of Chineseness, 39

2. Chinese/American Verse in Transnational Perspective: Racial Protest and the Poems of Angel Island, 63

Interchapter: From the Language of Race to the Poetics of Ethnicity: The Rise of Asian American Verse, 95

3. “A Voice from China”: Ha Jin and the Cultural Politics of Antisocialist Realism, 109

4. The Precision of Persimmons: Li-Young Lee, Ethnic Identity, and the Limits of Lyric Testimony, 143

5. “Are You Hate Speech or Are You a Lullaby?”: Marilyn Chin and the Politics of Form in Chinese/American Verse, 187

Conclusion: Chinese/American Verse in the Age of Postethnicity?, 265

Notes, 271

Bibliography, 305

Index, 319