Contents

Introduction .................................................................................................................. 1

SYLVIE PATRON
Homonymy, Polysemy and Synonymy: Reflections on the Notion of Voice .................. 13

RIKKE ANDERSEN KRALGUN
‘Alternate Strains are to the Muses dear: The Oddness of Genette’s Voice in Narrative Discourse .................................................................................................................. 37

HENRIK SKOV NIELSEN
Fictional Voices? Strange Voices? Unnatural Voices? .................................................. 55

PEER F. BUNDGAARD
Significant Deviations: Strange Uses of Voice are one among other Means of Meaning Making .................................................................................................................. 83

LARS-ÅKE SKALIN
How Strange Are the “Strange Voices” of Fiction? .................................................... 101

STEFAN IVERSEN
States of Exception: Decoupling, Metarepresentation, and Strange Voices in Narrative Fiction .................................................................................................................. 127

ROLF REITAN
Theorizing Second-Person Narratives: A Backwater Project? ................................... 147

MARINA GRISHAKOVA
Toward a Typology of Virtual Narrative Voices ....................................................... 175

MARIA MÄKELÄ
Masters of Inferiority: Figural voices as discursive appropriators and as loopholes in narrative communication ................................................................. 191