

Contents

Foreword

Acknowledgements

Abbreviations

Introduction	13
1. The Trucial States and British Imperial Interests	21
I British Diplomacy in the Period of International Challenge, 1892–1918	23
II The Growth of British Interests between the Two World Wars	40
III The End of the British Imperialistic Era	71
2. Internal Changes	87
I Introduction	89
II The Trucial States between 1891 and 1918	90
III Changes in the Economy and in Political Attitudes: Cultural Development, 1892–1939	103
IV Important Political Changes during the Inter-War Period	113
V Decisive and Far-reaching Developments after the Second World War	133
3. Western Neighbours of the Trucial States	157
I Geographical Introduction	159
II The Qaṭar and Ottoman Dispute over al-‘Udaïd, 1871–1913	160
III The British and Ibn Sa‘ūd’s Policy towards the Trucial Coast up to 1939	168
IV Negotiations Concerning Abū Dhabī’s Frontiers with Sa‘ūdi Arabia, 1934–8	180
V The Post-War Period and the Agreement of 1975	199
VI Settlement of the Maritime Boundaries of Abū Dhabī and Qaṭar	212

4. Britain, Persia and the Trucial States	219
I The Qājār Period	221
II Şirrī, Tanb and Abū Mūsā Islands until 1921	233
III Britain's Attitude towards Persian Policy during the Rezā Shāh's Reign	246
IV The Search for a Settlement to the Islands' Dispute after 1945	273
5. Britain, Muscat and the Inter-State Boundaries	289
I A Historical Review of the Political Map	291
II The Frontiers between Muscat and the Trucial States	296
III The Inter-State Boundaries	307
6. Conclusion	317
Bibliography	325
Maps and Appendices	331
Index	357