

Contents

Acknowledgements	VII
List of Illustrations	VIII
Notes on Contributors	IX
1 Knowing Water: An Introduction	1
Jane Costlow, Yrjö Haila and Arja Rosenholm
2 Liquid Scale: Trans-Scalar Thinking and the Perception of Water	11
Scott Slovic
3 Water and Urban Space in Late Medieval Stockholm	28
Majja Ojala
4 The Many Roles of the Dynamic Danube in Early Modern Europe: Representations in Contemporary Sources	49
Verena Winiwarter
5 Water, Space, and Desire in Soviet Fiction: The Case of Konstantin Paustovsky	77
Arja Rosenholm
6 The Interplay of Water, Home, and Narration in Überfahrt by Anna Seghers	100
Withold Bonner
7 The River in Thaw-era Soviet Popular Song (1954–1970): The Formation of an Amicable Space	119
Maria Litovskaya
8 “The Sovereign of the River and the Sovereign of All Nature—in the Same Trap”	145
Mika Perkiömäki
9 The Pollution of the Baltic Sea: A Mirror Image of Modernization	167
Nina Tynkkynen

- 10 The Deep Waters of Literary Theme. Nature, Narrative, and Identity in Barbara Kingsolver's *The Lacuna 193
 Markku Lehtimäki
- 11 A Journey to the Bottom of the Sea. Water Myths and Risk Society in Veronica Pimenoff's *Risteilijät 212
 Toni Lahtinen
- 12 "It was only a tiny spring": Veneration, Value and Local Springs in Contemporary Russia 233
 Jane Costlow
- 13 Securing Water: Ambiguities of Control vs. Coexistence 255
 Yrjö Haila
- Index 277