

Contents

Preface ix

Acknowledgment xi

1	The Space and Strategy of Demographic Growth	1
1.1	Humans and Animals	1
1.2	Divide and Multiply	5
1.3	Jacopo Bichi and Domenica Del Buono, Jean Guyon, and Mathurine Robin	7
1.4	Reproduction and Survival	9
1.5	The Space of Growth	17
1.6	Environmental Constraints	19
1.7	A Few Figures	24
	Notes	27
	Further Reading	32
2	Demographic Growth: Between Choice and Constraint	33
2.1	Constraint, Choice, Adaptation	33
2.2	From Hunters to Farmers: The Neolithic Demographic Transition	35
2.3	Black Death and Demographic Decline in Europe	42
2.4	The Tragedy of the American Indios : Old Microbes and New Populations	47
2.5	Africa, America, and the Slave Trade	53
2.6	The French Canadians: A Demographic Success Story	57
2.7	Ireland and Japan: Two Islands, Two Histories	61
2.8	On the Threshold of the Contemporary World: China and Europe	67
	Notes	73
	Further Reading	84

3	Land, Labor, and Population	85
3.1	Diminishing Returns and Demographic Growth	85
3.2	Historical Confirmations	89
3.3	Demographic Pressure and Economic Development	94
3.4	More on Demographic Pressure and Development: Examples from the Stone Age to the Present Day	98
3.5	Space, Land, and Development	101
3.6	Population Size and Prosperity	108
3.7	Increasing or Decreasing Returns?	112
	Notes	113
	Further Reading	117
 4	 Toward Order and Efficiency: The Recent Demography of Europe and the Developed World	 119
4.1	From Waste to Economy	119
4.2	From Disorder to Order: The Lengthening of Life	124
4.3	From High to Low Fertility	131
4.4	European Emigration: A Unique Phenomenon	137
4.5	A Summing Up: The Results of the Transition	143
4.6	Theoretical Considerations on the Relationship between Demographic and Economic Growth	146
4.7	More on the Relationship between Demographic and Economic Growth: Empirical Observations	150
	Notes	157
	Further Reading	164
 5	 The Populations of Poor Countries	 167
5.1	An Extraordinary Phase	167
5.2	The Conditions of Survival	172
5.3	A Brief Geography of Fertility	179
5.4	The Conditions and Prospects for Fertility Decline and Demographic Policy	184
5.5	India and China	191
5.6	Fertilia and Sterilia	201
5.7	Explaining a Paradox	205
	Notes	212
	Further Reading	222
 6	 The Future	 225
6.1	Population and Self-Regulation	225
6.2	The Numbers of the Future	227
6.3	The North–South Divide and International Migration	233
6.4	On Sustainability of Extended Survival	242
6.5	The Moving Limits	251

6.6	Non-Renewable Resources and the Parable of Pauperia and Tycoonina	255
6.7	Food for All?	259
6.8	Space and Environment in a Smaller Planet	265
6.9	Calculations and Values	270
	Notes	274
	Major Scientific Journals for Further Reading	281
	Index	283