Contents

List of Contributors page xi
Foreword by Declan Kiberd xiii
Acknowledgements xix

Introduction 1
Michael Pierse

1 Writing and Theorising the Irish Working Class 37
David Convery

2 Representing Labour: Notes towards a Political and Cultural Economy of Irish Working-Class Experience 57
Christopher J. V. Loughlin

3 Working-Class Writing in Ireland before 1800: ‘Some must be poor – we cannot all be great’ 72
Andrew Carpenter

4 ‘We wove our ain wab’: The Ulster Weaver Poets’ Working Lives, Myths and Afterlives 89
Frank Ferguson

5 Sub-literatures?: Folk Song, Memory and Ireland’s Working Poor 102
John Moulden

6 Writing Working-Class Irish Women 122
Heather Laird

7 ‘Unwriting’ the City: Narrating Class in Early Twentieth-Century Belfast and Dublin (1900–1929) 140
Elizabeth Mannion
Contents

8 Class during the Irish Revolution: British Soldiers, 1916 and the Abject Body 153
James Moran

9 'An sinne a bhí sa chónra?': Writing Death on the Margins in Twentieth-Century Irish Working-Class Writing 168
Michael Pierse

10 Writing Irish Nurses in Britain 195
Tony Murray

11 The View from Below: Solidarity and Struggle in Irish-American Working-Class Literature 209
Margaret Hallissy and John Lutz

Peter Kuch

13 Irish Working-Class Poetry 1900–1960 243
Niall Carson

14 'A system that inflicts suffering upon the many': Early twentieth-century working-class fiction 257
Paul Delaney

15 Drama, 1900–1950 271
Paul Murphy

16 Seán O'Casey and Brendan Behan: Aesthetics, Democracy and the Voice of Labour 289
John Brannigan

17 Reshaping Well-Worn Genres: Novels of Progress and Precarity 1960–1998 303
Mary M. McGlynn

Victor Merriman

19 Poetry and the Working Class in Northern Ireland during the Troubles 332
Adam Hanna

20 Class Politics and Performance in Troubles Drama: 'History isn't over yet' 348
Mark Phelan
Contents

| 21 | Twentieth-Century Workers' Biography | Claire Lynch | 364 |
| 22 | Multiple Class Consciousnesses in Writings for Theatre during the Celtic Tiger Era | Eamonn Jordan | 378 |
|    | Afterword – Overdue: The Recovery and Study of Irish Working-Class Writing, an International Perspective | H. Gustav Klaus | 397 |

| Bibliography | 407 |
| Index | 443 |