

Contents

List of abbreviations	viii
Glossary	x
Introduction	xi
1 Recognised and unrecognised quasi-states	1
Recognised quasi-states (RQs) and criteria for recognised quasi-states (RQC) 5
First and second criteria for recognised quasi-states (RQC-I and RQC-II) 5
Third and fourth criteria for recognised quasi-states (RQC-III and RQC-IV) 9
Unrecognised quasi-states (UQs) and criteria for unrecognised quasi-states (UQC) 12
Recognised quasi-states (RQs) versus unrecognised quasi-states (UQs) 22
States with dual sovereignty (SWDS) versus quasi-states 23
2 The context of two quasi-states in Iraq	25
Contending debate on the oppositional nature of the Kurdish and Iraqi quests for nationhood 25
Contending debate on the Kurdish quasi-state 27
Contending debate on Iraq as a quasi-state 29
Nations, nations without states, and non-nation states 30
3 The two contradictory nationhood projects in Iraq	35
Iraqi Nationhood Project and the Kurds 35
Kurdish Nationhood Project 46
4 The monarchy-Kurds relations	70
The monarchy-urban Kurds relations 73
The monarchy-aghas relations 75

The emergence of the urbanite-agma coalition 77

The KDP monopoly of Kurdish politics 80

5 The first unrecognised Kurdish quasi-state (1961–1975) 84

The emergence of the peshmerga as a unified Kurdish militia 85

The emergence of Mustafa Barzani as a charismatic Kurdish leader 85

The September revolution and the establishment of Free Kurdistan 87

The size of Free Kurdistan 88

The population of Free Kurdistan 89

Was Free Kurdistan a quasi-state? 89

Free Kurdistan from 1961–1975: the first unrecognised Kurdish quasi-state (UKQ-I) 97

Iraq from 1961–1975: a recognised quasi-state (RQ) 97

6 The case of negative patronage 102

The puzzling downfall of the UKQ-I 102

Negative patronage as the Kurds' Achilles' heel 106

7 The rise and fall of Kurdish insurgency (1976–1988) 114

The first phase: the emergence of the Kurdish insurgency (1976–1979) 114

The second phase: administrating the peshmerga controlled areas (1979–1985) 116

The third phase: the expansion of the peshmerga controlled areas (1985–1987) 118

Do the peshmerga controlled areas meet criteria for unrecognised quasi-states? 119

Kurdish insurgency and the devolution of the Iraqi state into a quasi-state 125

8 Iraq's failure to govern Kurdistan (1975–1991) 131

The Autonomous Region of Kurdistan 131

Iraqi policy: from Kurdish integration to the annihilation of Iraqi Kurdistan 134

The depopulation policy after the collapse of the Kurdish insurgency 143

The Kurds respond to the de-Iraqification policy: the uprising of 1991 143

9	The second unrecognised Kurdish quasi-state (1992–2003)	148
	The establishment of the Kurdistan Regional Government	148
	The establishment of a Safe Haven	155
	The KRI (1991–2003) as a second unrecognised Kurdish quasi-state	159
	The case of negative patronage	159
	Iraq between 1991 and 2003: a recognised quasi-state	163
10	The third unrecognised Kurdish quasi-state after the 2003 invasion	167
	Termination of UKQ-II or a new phase of the Kurdish quasi-state?	167
	The first criterion (UQC-I): nation-building	168
	The second criterion (UQC-II): the militarisation of Kurdish society	170
	The third criterion (UQC-III): Iraq as a weak parent state	172
	The fourth criterion (UQC-IV): external patronage	173
	Kurdish strategy to find positive patronage during and after the invasion	173
	Iraq since 2003: a recognised quasi-state	174
	How two quasi-states in one country hindered Kurdish integration into Iraq	178
11	Oil for external patronage and financial independence	182
	From financial dependency on external patrons to revenue sharing with Baghdad	182
	Oil for external support and positive patronage	188
	The KRI goal: from periphery to emerging regional oil power	189
	The failure of the financial independence policy?	191
12	Independence referendum and the case of negative patronage	197
	Internal challenges	198
	Factors behind the Kurds' move towards an independence referendum	199
	Negative patronage as the KRI's Achilles' heel	204
	References	214
	List of news and newspaper sources	243
	Index	244