

Table of Contents

Foreword	9
Acknowledgments	13
Acknowledgments for the images	17
Introduction	19
Brief Introduction to the History of Photography in Iran	27
1 Visual Laterality: The Relationship between the Direction of Writing and Composition	41
1.1 Definition of visual laterality	42
1.2 Nineteenth-century Iranian portrait photography	45
1.3 Visual brain and visual perception in art	55
1.4 Asymmetries of the photographic space: Brain mechanisms or artistic conventions?	59
1.5 Reading habits versus aesthetic preferences: A neurological approach	62
2 The Written Image: Text and Photography	71
2.1 Persian calligraphy and type of scripts	71
2.2 Text and nineteenth-century Iranian portrait studio photography: Type of script versus content and meaning of the inscription	75
3 Pose, Gesture and Objects Held by the Sitter	105
3.1 Gesture, posture and pose	105
3.2 Pose and gesture in the Persian painting tradition	112
3.3 Pose and objects held by the sitter in nineteenth-century Iranian portrait photography	119
4 Arrangement of Space	131
4.1 Spatial characteristics of Persian miniature painting	131
4.2 The use of space in Persian miniature painting	140
4.3 The use of space in nineteenth-century photography in Iran	146
5 Interactions between Western and Iranian Photography	155
5.1 Schema of positions in portrait photography	155
5.2 Western photographers versus local sitters: Photographing the Other	157
5.3 Interaction between Western and Iranian photographers	165
5.4 Hybridity versus Appropriation	178

Conclusion	189
Afterword	193
Bibliography	195
Appendix: Photo Chronology	209
About the author	215
Index	217
Photos	221