

Contents

Introduction	1
Scientific Discourse and Literary Realism	7
French 'Realism'	8
English Realism	16
Defining terms	28
Catastrophism	28
Darwinism	31
Constructing the novels as parallels for the geotheries	38
Originality of the study	40
Counter examples	45
Chapters	46
Debating origins in nineteenth-century France and England	49
Transformism in France	50
Catastrophism in England	56
Evolution in England	64
Catastrophism in France	69
Dissemination of ideas through the periodical press	70
An English Madame Bovary	85
Suicide	93
Divorce	122
Bankruptcy	125
Class	126
Medicine	129
Flaubert's scientific vision	133
La bêtise	144
Catastrophism	148
Salammô	154
Braddon's scientific vision	167
Braddon and evolution	179
Lady Audley's Secret and Aurora Floyd	185
Madame Bovary and The Doctor's Wife	199
Linguistic affinities	199
Thematic affinities	207
Character and environment in The Doctor's Wife	221
Inter-personal relationships in Madame Bovary and The Doctor's Wife	229
Society in Madame Bovary	230
Community in The Doctor's Wife	239
Present and Past: Severance or Continuity	248
Severance from the past in Madame Bovary	250
Continuity with the past in The Doctor's Wife	259
Conclusion	269
Bibliography	275
Index	301