

Contents

List of Contributors	ix
Acknowledgments	xiii
Introduction: “The continual voyage I made”: Grace King’s Journey to Modernity	1
MELISSA WALKER HEIDARI
1 “Passionnément was what I wanted”: Female Sexuality in Grace King’s and Alice Dunbar-Nelson’s Fiction	22
SIRPA SALENIUS
2 25 Buts: Grace King as Southern Humorist	41
RALPH J. POOLE
3 Liminality and Linguistics: A Stylistic Analysis of Grace King’s Balcony Stories	61
INEKE BOCKTING
4 The Theatricality of Writing in Grace King’s Short Stories: Invisible Women on the Balcony	76
FRANÇOISE BUISSON
5 Voicing Race in Grace King’s Monsieur Motte	91
KATHIE BIRAT
6 Grace King’s Apocalyptic Fiction: Lifting the Veil from “The Story of a Day”	106
STÉPHANIE DURRANS

7	Myths of Domesticity and Mobility in Grace King's "A Crippled Hope" and "The Little Convent Girl"	119
	AMY DOHERTY MOHR
8	Putting Up the Veil to See Better: Grace King's "The Little Convent Girl"	132
	BRIGITTE ZAUGG
	Afterword: Going to the Source: Grace King's Papers and Critical Analysis	160
	MIKI PFEFFER
	Index	177