

Contents

List of Figures	vii
Acknowledgments	ix
 Victorian Contagion: Risk and Social Control in the Victorian Literary Imagination	 1
1 Theorizing Contagion: The Uses of Contagion in Victorian England	17
2 Verbalizing Contagion: Edwin Chadwick's Narratives and the Rise of Public Health Governance	52
3 "All Smell is Disease": Medical Realism in Charles Dickens's Narratives of Sanitation	88
4 Serial Outbreaks: Florence Nightingale and the Narrative Practice of Nursing	119
5 From Imagined Community to Imagined Immunity: Medical Realism in Elizabeth Gaskell's Novels	152
6 "On the Mode of Communication": John Snow, Cholera, and Victorian Visualization of Contagions	184
7 Aesthetics of Sanitation and Social Practice in Dickens's Novels: Prostitution and Moral Politics of Contagions	226
8 "A Clean City is a Healthy City": Normativity and Contagions in Victorian Slum Narratives	256

vi Contents

9	Victorian Materials and Rubbish Theory: Charles Dickens and the Recycling of Society in Our Mutual Friend	282
10	Conclusion	308
	Index	313