

Contents

Part I The Background to Trumpism and Economic Explanations	1
1 Introduction	3
References	17
2 Inequality, US Survey Results and Economic Analysis: The Case for Structural Trumpism	19
Tax Avoidance Problems, Foreign Direct Investment and G20	32
Income Dispersion	36
Economic Inequality Approach Versus Cultural Backlash Hypothesis	42
Relative Income Shares and Absolute Income Levels	46
US Survey of Consumer Finances: Analysis by Janet Yellen	49
Effective Real Per Capita Income and Health System Problems	53
What Drives Health-Care Costs in the US?	62
Council of Economic Advisers: Biased Per Capita Consumption Comparison of the US with Europe	64

CEA Conjectures on a Comparison of Per Capita Income Between US and Nordic Countries	66
Measuring Economic Performance	73
Child Poverty in the US Versus Child Poverty in Switzerland	73
Policy Priorities in an Open Economy: The Case of Switzerland	74
What Causes Rising Inequality in OECD Countries?	75
US Policy Aspects	85
Populism and the Internet	91
Political Polarization	92
Two Destabilizing Mechanisms of the International Economy: Nationalism and Excessive Banking Deregulation	94
References	95
 3 Protectionist US Policy and Expansionary Fiscal Policy: Ongoing Contradictions	 101
The Political Debate About Trade and Globalization	101
Trade, Protectionism and Production in a National and Global Perspective	106
Trump's Fiscal Impulse	111
Inconsistent Views on the US International Trade Position	114
What Is the Problem with Globalization?	125
Globalization and Trade in an International Perspective	130
US Mid-term Elections 2018	132
Taking Back Control: Wishful Thinking and the International World	133
References	136
 Part II Transatlantic Economic Relations	 139
 4 Trade, Employment and Transatlantic Policy Aspects	 141
The NAFTA Trade Conflict, New NAFTA and the US- China Tariff War in a Global Perspective	141
Skills and Employment Ratios in Industrialized Countries	144

	Contents	xix
Heterogeneous Firms, Trade and Employment		144
The Size of the Transatlantic Effective Per Capita Income Gap		146
US Imports of EU Cars as a Threat to US Security?		149
New Trade Conflicts and the Reform of International Organizations		151
National Economic Policy and Globalization Plus China's Growth		154
Common Populism Denominator in the USA and the EU?		159
Populism in Italy		162
Inequality Perception		163
Trumpism and the Conte Government in Italy		164
References		166
5 EU Reform Problems and the Rise of Populism in Europe		167
Trumpism and Brexit		180
Brexit and Financial Market Perspectives		184
US Brexit Perspectives		185
Regulatory and Security Perspectives		190
References		193
Transatlantic Economic Relations		197
Appendix Part II: Adapted from Welfens (2018c), EIIW Discussion Paper No. 252		197
What Is Free Trade and How Will Protectionism Affect Income Per Capita in the Long Run?		203
References		214
Part III US-Asian and Global Economic Perspectives		217
6 US-Asia-EU Perspectives		219
The US-China Tariff Conflict and Its Impact on the EU27, the UK and Asia		219

US Protectionist Trade Policy Vis-à-Vis China	224
Is China a Challenge for the EU? Indeed, via a Destabilization of the US	232
APEC Challenges and Asian-EU Perspectives	234
References	240
7 China Risks and Challenges	241
New Global Governance Issues	247
References	249
Part IV Policy Innovations and Systemic Reforms	251
8 Policy Conclusions for International Organizations	253
Differentiated Economic Globalization	256
References	260
9 International Policy Conclusions	261
Perspectives	265
Further Perspectives	270
Why Defending the Western Liberal Order Is Crucial—New Proposals	271
Policy Innovation for Unbiased Ratings	275
References	279
10 Canada, the US and Eurozone: Implications for US Reforms	281
Some Further Conclusions	286
Transatlantic and Transpacific Health-Care Dialogue—and New Prospects	288
Selected EU Problems and OECD Perspectives	294
A View on the OECD	300
Improving the Digital Economy	301
Crucial New Prospects for Cooperation in Climate Policy	302

Post-Trump Perspectives	304
References	305

Appendix	307
-----------------	-----

References	329
-------------------	-----

Index	345
--------------	-----