

Contents

Citation Information	vii
Notes on Contributors	xi
1. Me Too Political Science: An Introduction Nadia E. Brown	1
2. What's Wrong with Us? Sexual Misconduct and the Discipline of Political Science Patricia Strach	7
3. Sexual Harassment Trajectories: Limits of (Current) Law and of the Administrative State Carol Nackenoff	21
4. Law, Policy, and Sexual Abuse in the #MeToo Movement: USA Gymnastics and the Agency of Minor Athletes Julie Novkov	42
5. Sexual Coercion, Gender Construction, and Responsibility for Freedom: A Beauvoirian Account of Me Too Claire McKinney	75
6. #MeToo in Japan and South Korea: #WeToo, #WithYou Linda Hasunuma and Ki-young Shin	97
7. "I Don't Belong Here": Understanding Hostile Spaces Juliana Restrepo Sanín	112
8. #MeToo What Kind of Politics? Panel Notes Juliana Restrepo Sanín	122
9. Why I Do Activist Work within the Discipline Shauna Shames	129

10. Ending Sexual Harassment: Protecting the Progress of #MeToo Kristen Renwick Monroe	131
11. Political Science's #MeToo Moment Rose McDermott	148
12. Policy Learning and Transformational Change: University Policies on Sexual Harassment J. Celeste Lay	156
13. Mentoring, Sexual Harassment, and Black Women Academics Nadia E. Brown	166
14. Understanding the Personal Impact of Sexual Violence and Assault Vanessa Tyson	174
15. #MeToo from a Department Head Perspective Rosalee A. Clawson	184
16. The National Conference of Black Political Scientists (NCOBPS): Organizational Empowerment Through Signaling and Valuing Women and Diversity During #MeToo Shayla C. Nunnally	190
17. Breaking Out of the Ivory Tower: (Re)Thinking Inclusion of Women and Scholars of Color in the Academy Jenn M. Jackson	195
18. Title IX: Help or Hindrance? Valerie A. Sulfaro and Rebecca Gill	204
19. Poetic Labors and Challenging Political Science: An Epistolary Poem Tiffany Willoughby-Herard	228
Index	236