

C O N T E N T S

Introduction: Constructing Scientific Communities 1

Gowan Dawson and Jonathan R. Topham

PART 1 New Formats for New Readers

- 1 Scientific, Medical, and Technical Periodicals in Nineteenth-Century Britain:
New Formats for New Readers 35
Gowan Dawson and Jonathan R. Topham
- 2 Redrawing the Image of Science: Technologies of Illustration and the Audiences for Scientific Periodicals in Britain, 1790–1840 65
Jonathan R. Topham
- 3 Proceedings and the Public: How a Commercial Genre Transformed
Science 103
Alex Csiszar

PART 2 Defining the Communities of Science

- 4 “An Independent Publication for Geologists”: The Geological Society,
Commercial Journals, and the Remaking of Nineteenth-Century Geology 137
Gowan Dawson
- 5 Natural History Periodicals and Changing Conceptions of the Naturalist
Community, 1828–65 172
Geoffrey Belknap
- 6 “The Sympathy of a Crowd”: Imagining Scientific Communities in Mid-
Nineteenth-Century Entomology Periodicals 205
Matthew Hale

- 7 Periodical Physics in Britain: Institutional and Industrial Contexts, 1870–1900 238
Graeme Gooday
- 8 Late Victorian Astronomical Society Journals: Creating Scientific Communities on Paper 274
Bernard Lightman

PART 3 Managing the Boundaries of Medicine

- 9 “A Borderland in Ethics”: Medical Journals, the Public, and the Medical Profession in Nineteenth-Century Britain 311
Sally Frampton
- 10 “National Health Is National Wealth”: Publics, Professions, and the Rise of the Public Health Journal 337
Sally Shuttleworth

Acknowledgments 371
Select Bibliography 373
List of Contributors 387
Index 389