

Contents

Acknowledgements	IX
List of Abbreviations	XI
Notes on Contributors	XIV

- 1 Introduction: the Study of Children in the Bible: New Questions or a New Method? 1
Kristine Henriksen Garroway and John W. Martens

PART 1

Connections in the Field

- 2 Feminist Studies as the Mother of Childist Approaches to the Bible 19
Kathleen Gallagher Elkins
- 3 Why Hebrew Bible Masculinity Studies and Childhood Studies Have Not Connected, and Why They Should 35
Stephen M. Wilson

PART 2

Archaeology and the Ancient Near East

- 4 Childist Archaeology: Children, Toys, and Skill Transmission in Ancient Israel 55
Kristine Henriksen Garroway
- 5 Children Should Be Seen: Studying Children in Assyrian Iconography 76
Jason Anthony Riley
- 6 Broadening Our Perspective of Ancient Children: Historical-Comparative Methods and the Value of Ancient Children 104
Shawn W. Flynn

PART 3Hebrew Bible and New Testament

- 7 The Narrative Work of Biblical Children: Soundings from Genesis 127
 Danna Nolan Fewell
- 8 The Force of YHWH Awakens: Social Scientific Methodologies and
Children Who Rise from the Dead 143
 Julie Faith Parker
- 9 Narrative Criticism and Childist Interpretation: a Study of Mark
7:24–30 164
 Sharon Betsworth
- 10 Perspectives from Disability Studies in the Pastoral Epistles 177
 Anna Rebecca Solevåg
- 11 Children in Mark: a Deconstructive Approach 196
 A. James Murphy
- 12 Conclusions: the Childist Criticism of the Future 217
 Kristine Henriksen Garroway
- Index of Subjects 229
 Index of Ancient Texts 232
 Index of Modern Authors 237