

Contents

Foreword	vii
Amby Burfoot
Acknowledgments	xi
Introduction: The Nature of American Philosophy and Endurance Sport	xiii
Douglas Hochstetler
1 Running and Musing: Living Philosophically	1
Douglas Anderson
2 When Continentalism Meets Pragmatism: Enduring Life in the Strenuous Mood	11
Ron Welters
3 Floyd Landis, Endurance Sport and the Aesthetics of Tension	31
Tim Elcombe
4 Sunrise, Sunset: Reflections on What Makes an Aging Biker's Life Significant	49
Scott Kretchmar
5 Representative Endurance Athlete	61
Peter Hopsicker
6 Cooking up a Plan: Pragmatism and Training	79
Pam R. Sailors and Cody D. Cash

7	Dewey Goes the Distance: Situated Habit and Ultraendurance Sports Jesús Ilundáin-Agurruza, Shaun Gallagher, Daniel D. Hutto, and Kaarina Beam	97
8	“The Will to Believe,” the Will to Win, and the Problem of Self-Transcendence Jeffrey Fry	125
9	On Meaning and Motive in Endurance Sport: An Experiential Romp through the Grand Whys Scott Tinley	143
	Conclusion: Circles of Life: Evaluating Goals and Preparing for the Future Douglas Hochstetler	159
	Index	171
	Contributor Biographies	173