

Contents

Citation Information	vii
Notes on Contributors	ix
1. The African second generation in the United States – identity and transnationalism: an introduction Kassahun Kebede	1
2. Convergent identifications, divergent meanings: the racial and ethnic identities of second-generation West African youth Dialika Sall	19
3. Gauging panethnicity: affirmative action, African Americans, and children of black immigrants Onoso Imoagene	38
4. Second-generation African college students and the American ethnoracial pentagon: self-identification, racial labeling and the contouring of group boundaries Clémentine Berthelemy	53
5. It is tough to be a Liberian refugee in Staten Island, NY: the importance of context for second generation African immigrant youth Bernadette Ludwig	71
6. Transnational identity formation of second-generation Cameroonian youth in the United States: a perspective of a Cameroonian parent-educator Michael Takafor Ndemanu	93
7. Fitting In and standing out: identity and transnationalism among second-generation African immigrants in the United States Elizabeth Chacko	110
8. 'Ethiopia is misunderstood': transnationalism among second-generation Ethiopian Americans Kassahun Kebede	125
Index	149