

Preface	xiii
Acknowledgments	xv
PART I RESEARCH PROCESS	1
Chapter 1 Introduction to Legal Research	3
A. Introduction	3
B. The research thought process	3
C. A process for legal research	6
Chapter 2 The American Legal System	9
A. Sources of law	9
B. Types and weight of authority	12
1. Types of authority	12
2. Weight of authority	12
a. Secondary authority: always nonbinding	13
b. Primary authority: sometimes binding, sometimes nonbinding	13
c. Summary of weight of authority	17
C. How legal information is organized and cited	18
Chapter 3 Defining a Research Question	21
A. What question do you need to answer?	21
B. What terms are likely to describe what you are looking for?	24
C. Search term chart	25
Chapter 4 Pre-Search Filtering	27
A. How pre-search filtering affects research	27
B. Criteria for pre-search filtering	29
C. A process for pre-search filtering	31
Chapter 5 Research Tools and Search Techniques	35
A. Selecting a research tool	35
B. Common search techniques: citation, word, and subject searching	36
C. Effective word searching	38
1. Types of word searches	38
2. Drafting effective word searches	39

3. Terms and connectors searching	40
a. Terms and connectors search logic	40
b. Drafting a terms and connectors search	42
4. Example searches	43
Chapter 6 Working with Search Results	47
A. Assessing search results	47
1. The organization of the results	47
2. Telling things apart online	48
3. Post-search filtering	50
B. Updating research	52
C. Refining, repeating, and ending the search	53
1. Is your research complete?	54
2. What if you do not find anything useful?	55
3. What if you find an overwhelming amount of information?	56
Chapter 7 Keeping Track of What You Find	59
PART II RESEARCHING INDIVIDUAL TYPES OF AUTHORITY	63
Chapter 8 Legal and Nonlegal Secondary Sources	65
A. Introduction	65
1. When secondary sources will be most useful	65
2. Limits on the appropriate use of secondary sources	66
B. Methods of researching legal secondary sources	67
C. Researching commonly used legal secondary sources	68
1. Legal encyclopedias	68
2. Treatises	69
3. Legal periodicals	70
4. American Law Reports	73
5. Restatements	74
6. Uniform laws and model acts	76
D. Researching nonlegal secondary sources	77
Chapter 9 Cases	79
A. Introduction	79
1. The structure of the court system	79
2. Sources of cases	79
3. The anatomy of a published case	82
4. Unpublished, or nonprecedential, opinions	83
B. Methods of researching cases	84
C. Tools for online case research	84
1. Researching cases by subject with an online digest	84
2. Tools for evaluating and expanding case research search results	86

D. Print research with West Digests	87
1. Locating the correct digest set	88
2. Locating topics and key numbers	91
3. Reading case summaries	92
4. Updating your research	92
Chapter 10 Citators and Other Updating Tools	93
A. Introduction	93
1. The purpose of a citator	93
2. When to use a citator in case research	94
3. Terms and procedural concepts used in citator research	94
B. Using a citator for case research	95
1. Shepard's in Lexis	95
2. KeyCite in Westlaw	98
3. BCite in Bloomberg Law	101
C. Choosing among citators	102
D. Staying up to date with alert services	103
Chapter 11 Statutes and Court Rules	105
A. Introduction	105
1. The publication process for federal statutes	105
2. The organization of statutory codes	106
3. Types and sources of statutory codes	107
B. Methods of researching statutes	109
C. Using a citator for statutory research	111
D. Researching rules of procedure	112
Chapter 12 Federal Legislative History and Administrative Regulations	115
A. Federal legislative history	115
1. Introduction	115
2. The process of enacting a federal law	116
3. Types of federal legislative history documents	117
a. Bills	117
b. Hearings	118
c. Floor debates	118
d. Committee reports	118
4. Methods of researching federal legislative history documents	119
a. Compiled legislative histories in print	120
b. Government sources	120
c. Commercial services	121
B. Federal administrative regulations	122
1. Introduction	122
2. The process of adopting a federal regulation	123
3. Methods of researching federal regulations	123

4. Sources of federal regulations	125
a. Government sources	125
b. Commercial services	125
5. Using a citator for regulatory research	126
PART III RESEARCH FLOWCHARTS	127
A. General research flowchart	128
B. Nonbinding authority research flowchart	130
C. Flowcharts for four common types of research	132
1. State common-law research flowchart	133
2. State statutory research flowchart	134
3. Federal statutory research flowchart	135
4. State and federal procedural research flowchart	136
Appendix Selected Research Resources	137
Index	143