Contents

List of figures	page vi
Series editors' foreword	vii
Acknowledgements	viii
A note on terminology	ix
Introduction: of races and genocides	1
1 The sciences of deafness: deaf people as objects of research, refo	rm,
and eugenics, 1900–1940	17
2 Concerned and puzzled: heredity research and counselling at th	ie
Clarke School, 1930–1960	43
3 Minorities and pathologies: psychogenetic counselling at the N	ew
York State Psychiatric Institute, 1955–1969	71
4 Preventing tragedy, negotiating normalcy: the changing meaning	ig
of Usher syndrome, 1960–1980	107
5 Signing risk and chance: collaborating for culturally sensitive
counselling, 1970–1990	138
Conclusion: from Bell to biodiversity	166
Bibliography	179
Index	198