

Contents

Acknowledgements	x
Introduction	1
Historical sources and the story of Jahangir	2
The Vaqa'i and the Jahangirnama	5
About this book	12
 Part One Salim Mirza, 1569–1605
1 The prince	17
The Timurid-Mughal dynasty	17
Birth of a prince	19
Childhood	21
2 The rebel	27
Insurrection	27
Salim Padshah	30
Resolution	35
 Part Two The Emperor Jahangir, 1605–8
3 The new king	41
Consolidating kingship	41
Legitimate rule	43
His father's footsteps	44
Religious policies	46
The twelve decrees and the chain of justice	48
4 Filial rebellion	53
Khusraw's revolt	53
The aftermath of princely revolt	56
Babur's Kabul	57

Part Three Agra, 1608–13

5	Relationships at the royal court	65
	The nobility	65
	Gifting	67
	Viewings and interactions	74
	The wine of loyalty	75
	Punishment and clemency	78
6	Divine kingship and the imperial cult	83
	The Majalis	83
	Images of the divine	89
7	International diplomacy and war	97
	Europe	97
	The Ottomans, Uzbeks and Safavids	103
	The Deccan and Malik Ambar	111
8	Love and marriage	117
	Marriage and the Mughal prince	117
	Salim in love	122

Part Four Elegant nomad, 1613–21

9	The peripatetic court	127
	Ajmer and the campaign against Mewar	127
	The walking commonwealth	130
	The fruits of empire	136
10	The itinerant king	139
	From garden to garden	139
	Touring and hunting	141
	Gujarat and the sea	147
	An Enlightenment king of the east	149
	Pilgrimage, shrines and holy men	154

Part Five Kingship in crisis, 1619–27

11	Golden days	165
	Kangra	165
	Sikri, Agra and the road north	166

Poetry at the Mughal court	170
Nur Jahan, Padshah Begim	173
12 Rising crises	181
Threats to power and kingship	181
A secretary's tale of filial revolt	186
Muhammad Hadi	190
The rebellion of Mahabat Khan	193
The death of the king	196
Conclusion	199
Remembering Jahangir	199
Native son	202
Notes	205
Bibliography	240
Index	254