

Contents

Preface . . . . .	7
 Translatio studii: imitation and transformations of Italian humanist culture
SUSANNA DE BEER, Conrad Celtis's Visions of Rome Relocation, Contestation and Imitation of the Italian Renaissance in German Humanism . . . . .	13
ANNET DEN HAAN, Sources, pools and runnels: The humanist reception of the Ordinary Gloss and Lyra's Postils. . . . .	33
MARIANNE PADE, Melanchthon and Thucydides: The reception of the Peloponnesian War in a Reformation context. . . . .	47
TRINE ARLUND HASS, Playing your Part: Bucolic Traditions and Positions in Hans Lauridsen Amerinus's Ecloga de pacis foedere (1573). . . . .	63
PER SIGURD T. STYVE, Renaissance Images of Multiple Temporalities. . . . .	83
LÆRKE MARIA ANDERSEN FUNDER, Meeting expectations and revealing aspirations: Ole Worm and the emergent genre of museum catalogues . . . . .	103
 Teaching and development of Humanist Latin
CLEMENTINA MARSICO, Continuity and change in the Neo-Latin grammars of the European vernaculars (French, Castilian, German, and English) . . . . .	123
MORTEN FINK-JENSEN, Education, Humanism, and the Reformation in Denmark. . . . .	139
JOHANN RAMMINGER, The Latin of the German Reformation and the Heritage of Quattrocento Humanism. . . . .	155
CAMILLA PLESNER HORSTER, Humanist Latin for a new purpose: The indication of indirect discourse from Italy to Denmark. . . . .	179
 Competing Nations
MARC LAUREYS, Assessing the influence of Biondo Flavio's historical geography: the case of the Low Countries. . . . .	203

KAREN SKOVGAARD-PETERSEN, Stephanius's Notæ uberiores in Historiam Danicam Saxonis Grammatici (1645): a humanist commentary on a medieval history of Denmark . . . . .	219
PETER ZEEBERG, Collections of Latin inscriptions from the milieu around Henrich Rantzau . .	231
OUTI MERISALO, Urbes antiquissimae : Renaissance influences in descriptions of towns and cities of seventeenth-eighteenth-century Magnus Ducatus Finlandiae . . . . .	241
Index . . . . .	249
Contributors . . . . .	261