

---

Contents

---

Acknowledgements	ix
Introduction	1
1 Immigration and the nation-state	10
The question of immigration	10
The two models of the nation	19
The 'nationalisation' of France	27
The nation-state today: problems of interpretation	33
2 Post-war immigration in France	37
1945–55: the state, demography and the economy	38
1955–68: the boom years	42
1968–74: a 'new' immigration policy	46
1974–81: integration or repatriation	52
1981–91: the politics of immigration under Mitterrand	57
3 The 'problem' of immigration	70
Problems and solutions	70
State determinations and determinations of the state	78
Integration and control	82
Racialisation and the nation	89
4 Assimilation and difference	95
The 'seuil de tolérance' and the ghetto	95
Proximity/distance: colonialism/post-colonialism	106
Headscarves and the Enlightenment	111
Racism/anti-racism	118
5 Nationality and citizenship	126
Rights and the nation-state	128
The law, transgression and crisis: 'les clandestins'	133
The nationality debate	140

Rights at the crossroads	147
6 France and the 'New Europe'	153
Refugees, immigration and controls	154
Which model for rights?	161
Alterity and citizenship in Europe	166
Notes	171
Bibliography	186
Index	198