

Contents

Acknowledgements	vii
Introduction	1
PART I
From metropolitan reform to a theory of governance systems: the origins and main themes of the Bloomington research program	5
1 Political economy, polycentricity and the metropolitan reform debate	7
2 Crossing the great divide: The nature of public economies	30
PART II
The “human condition” and the foundations of social order: elements of a social philosophy of institutionalism	53
3 Knowledge and institutions: developing a social philosophy of institutional order and change	55
4 Ideas, language and meaning: an unorthodox approach to institutional order and institutional analysis	76
PART III
The Bloomington School in its intellectual context: a family of themes and schools of thought	99
5 Competing disciplines, methodological divides and emerging research agendas: the Bloomington School in its interdisciplinary setting	101
6 Public policy analysis, Public Choice and the old “new science of politics”	116

Conclusions: a science of association, a science of citizenship, a science of liberty	137
Postscript: rethinking institutional analysis and development. Dialogues with Vincent and Elinor Ostrom	142
Bibliography	160
Index	167