

Contents

Foreword by Bronislaw Malinowski	xiii
Preface to the second edition	xxix
Preface	xxxiii
I Introduction	I
II The Arunta, the type pattern of Australian culture	14
III The procreative beliefs of the Central Australian Aborigines	47
IV The procreative beliefs of the native tribes of Northern Australia	107
V The procreative beliefs of the native tribes of North-Eastern Australia, Queensland, and Cape York Peninsula	141
VI The procreative beliefs of the native tribes of North-Western Australia	178
VII The procreative beliefs of the native tribes of Western Australia	201
VIII The procreative beliefs of the native tribes of Southern, South-Eastern, and Eastern Australia	209
IX A summary account of the procreative beliefs of the Australian Aborigines	222
X The critical theories relating to the procreative beliefs of the Australian Aborigines	231
XI Phallic ceremonies and so-called phallic worship	297
XII Subincision and its alleged relationship to procreation	312
XIII Maternity and paternity in Australia	326
XIV Nescience, science, and psychoanalysis	353
XV Tradition, experience, and belief	377
Bibliography	393
Index	411